Steve,
It's been a really blast having
you occupy the seat
behind me in Spanish.
Good luck in the future.
Brian Mertz

Steve,

It's really been a blast having 2 classes with
you. I must say that at times you made the class
quite interesting.
Good luck.

Always,

Janet Klingenberg

Steve,
I've enjoyed having
you occupy the seat
behind me in Spanish.
Good luck in the
future.
Brian Mertz

Steve,

It has been nice
having biology, history, Spanish
+ -- (I don't like that class) with you. We really had fun cutting things up in biology.

FUN THIS SUMMER.
SEE YOU AROUND!

DAVE
BARI

More than fifty years ago, a people came to this very site, beneath an eternal rainbow of human emotions, following an unfading star of hope. And now, fifty years of evolution have passed, an evolution which wrought change upon change. For they were a people with eyes upon a star, a people with hopes and dreams of a land transformed—a desert of weary brown becoming an oasis of joyful green.

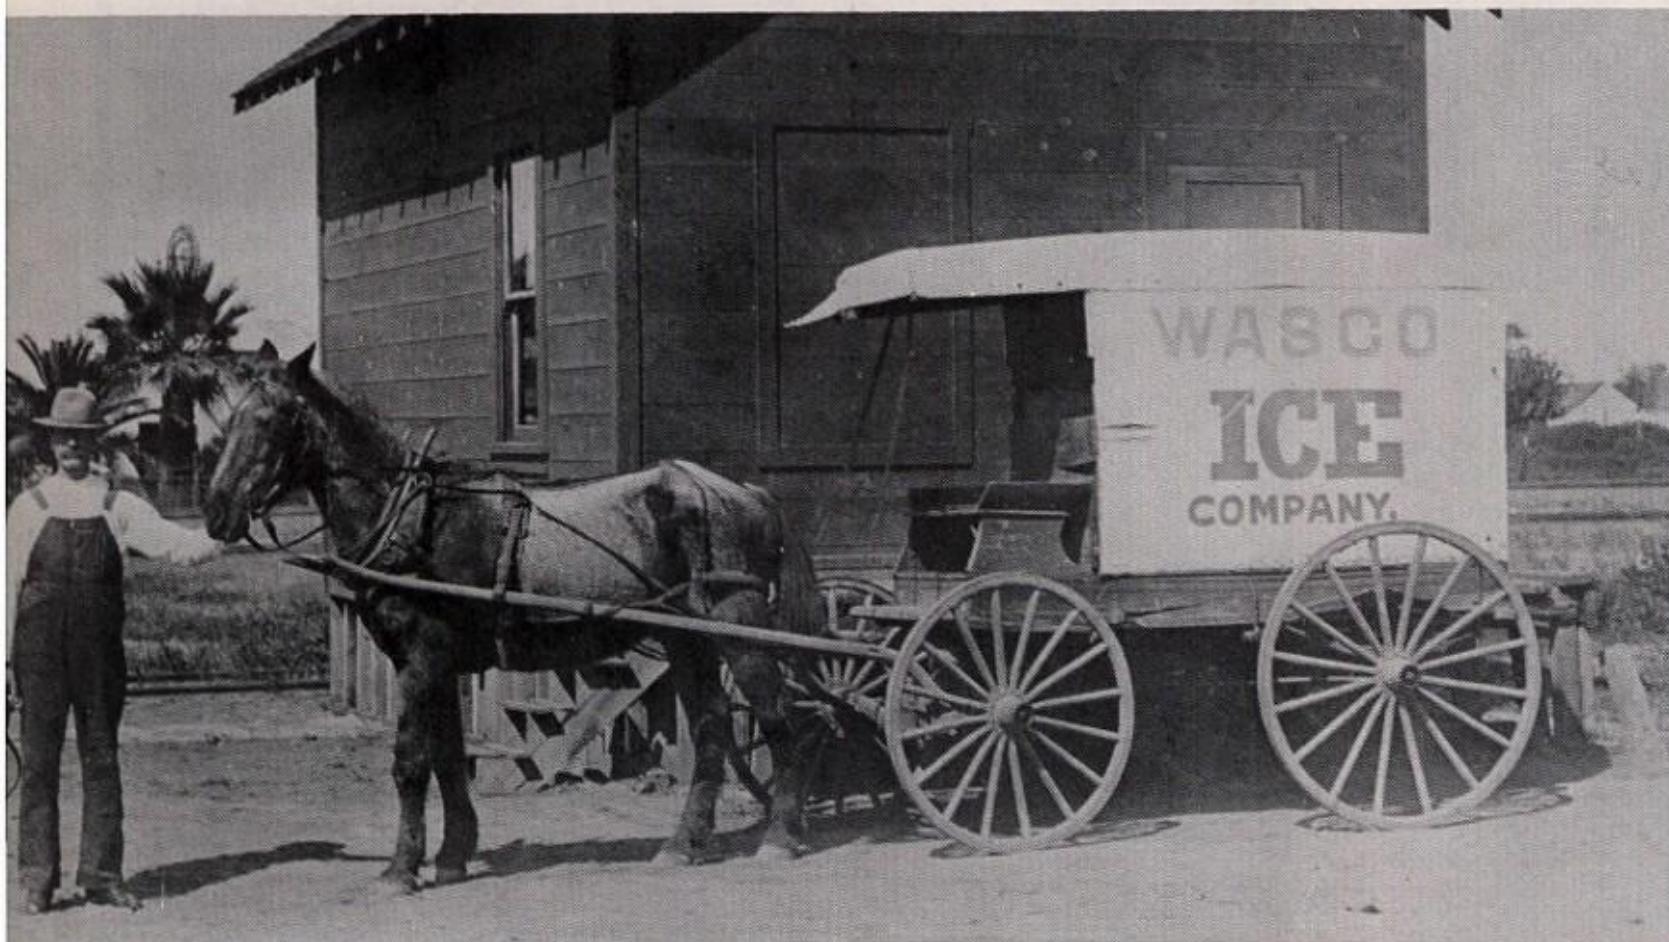

Ah, yes, once this barren land stretched far beneath its celestial canopy . . . the sun, the stars, the moon its only light. Beneath their glimmer, nature's jackrabbits scurried freely upon the calm and barren land. Nature's majesty remained unchallenged.

And then, in covered wagons, on horseback and on foot, came men pushing westward, seeking such a land whose far-stretching plain spoke of freedom. But the land was arid and forbidding. Many, disheartened, unwilling to struggle against Nature, turned away. But there were those who accepted the challenge, those who stayed—the pioneers.

They pitched their tents in this forbidden place, this rabbit kingdom, and determined it to be their home. Here man and Nature were pitted against each other in desperate struggle. By sunlight, by candlelight, by lantern, the people built and rebuilt—always with eyes upon that same unfading star that had been their guide.

The type of building, the mode of transportation, the style of clothing, the array of social events — each endured its own time and crumbled into the enfolding dust of history.

An early mode of transportation, familiar to Wasco's first inhabitants, was Mr. Cormack's ice wagon.

Marcia Albert and David Tracy admire the modern lines of his 1965 Mustang.

- 1890's Land purchase from Marshal V. Hartranft of Los Angeles
- 1893 Oct. 11 — a $4000 bond election for erection of permanent school building — all 10 votes in favor
Small school called Delta at corner of Wasco-Pond Road and Kimberlina
- 1897 Santa Fe Railway through Wasco — "first finger of civilization"
Town originally named Dewey and then Deweyville in honor of Admiral Dewey, hero of Manila Bay
- 1900 Name changed to Wasco after tribe of Indians when discovered there was another Deweyville
- 1904 Combined Delta-Shamrock School — 5 pupils
Town population 16
- 1905 First game of baseball played in spring—W. G. McCombs pitched Parked along Wasco's main street in 1911 were horses, buggies and early versions of the automobile.

Steve

They toiled and they wept; some cursed and some bent their heads in prayer. Together man and woman by the sweat of their brows made homes — with logs, with labor, with love. And in those humble homes they taught their children endurance and reverence, womanhood and manhood; a girl was taught to be a woman, a boy to be a man.

And though those pioneers continually struggled against the adversity of the land, the eternal rainbow of human emotions remained. In their homes upon this desert land, the pioneers — man, woman, child — laughed and cried, loved and hated, prayed and cursed, braved and feared. With thankful hearts in the midst of wilderness, they added a one-room school. From these meager beginnings—from these pioneers, guided by an unfading star, sheltered by an eternal rainbow—a community, a school evolved.

Standard attire of contemporary high school students is depicted above.

- 1907 First colonists—400 families—arrived
- 1908 First church built
- 1911 First edition of Wasco News—Nov. 11
- 1912 Public library opened in Nov.—building dedicated in June, 1924
- 1914 First local Parent-Teachers Association meeting—Jan. 17
- 1915 First potatoes grown in Wasco
- Held first high school classes in old Wasco Hall, one-room building next to present Wasco Theater — 30 students and 3 teachers
- 1917 Naomi Crawford and Louise Schmidt first graduates

In spring, school moved to present campus — first building constructed at $47,203

Martha Stinnett, Therese Miller, Janet Hadlock, Jo Ella Tiger, Jeuneta Marks and Gene Hogan, song and yell leaders of 1956, exemplify the transformation in clothing styles.

These, the pioneers, were not dismayed by the challenge of an untamed land. With eyes upon a star, they fought and they struggled . . . to achieve a dream—the dream of a land transformed. The earth is no longer barren but bountiful; the desert, no longer repulsive but enveloping. For man toiled long, but within him always was a sustaining hope. The challenge of the desert was met; a land was transformed.

Man, with his eyes upon the star, lived each day an unwritten saga. Each day brought a new challenge. Man, the builder, the dreamer, built and tore down and built up again. He was pitted against Nature. Much there was that succumbed to the arm of history.

One of the countless fads introduced by the fashion industry is this ensemble worn by Gail Fries.

Even the faces change in the shadow of time

- 1935 Science building constructed — Enrollment 347
- 1942 Enrollment 429 — drop in normal increase due to U.S. entrance in World War II
- 1952 Severe earthquake
- 1953 Band and library buildings constructed
- 1958 Quake-damaged gym rebuilt
- 1959 Administration building constructed
- 1966 Enrollment 875

Athletic contests offer excitement for Wasco High students.

The highlight of social events for many years has been the annual Snowball formal dance.

This is rural Wasco in the good ole summer time — 1908 style!

George W. McCausland (proprietor), Frank L. Beckwith — Although it's hardly the super supermarket we know today, this was modern shopping a few years back.

The type of building, the mode of transportation, the style of clothing, the array of social events — each endured its own time and crumbled into the enfolding dust of history. All parts of the land — of Nature — are transient; all are slaves of time.

And in time man himself becomes its slave. He, too, fades from the fast revolving earth. Man the dreamer, man the builder, man the shaper and maker, he, too, is dismissed. For new events demand new faces. A new man comes — with new ideas, new inventions, new dreams. Yes, even the faces change in the shadow of time.

The changing pioneers met the challenges of Nature.

And then came the challenge of wars, the great wars, and man was pitted against man. A somber figure o'ershadowed this earth. The sky was so blackened by the soot of war, of hate, of fear that the star of hope seemed to fade from view.

Men, boys, women within this desert oasis came from their homes, their jobs, their schools to face this newest challenge. They fought; they struggled; they died. The clamor, the heartbreak of war was felt as never before. Where once there were riches, now there were hate and tears. For some there was the physical pain of battle; for others there was the emotional pain of a son killed. Man was not fighting against Nature but against himself. Compassion and reason were buried somewhere beneath the ashes of atomic ruin. Man the builder, the dreamer, was become man the destroyer. He need no longer fear Nature; now he must fear himself — within his grasp was the power to destroy all that he held dear, the world and all that lived upon it. Finally . . . peace. A new and terrifying experience had become part of the unwritten saga of man.

A tree, a book, solitude — color me pensive.

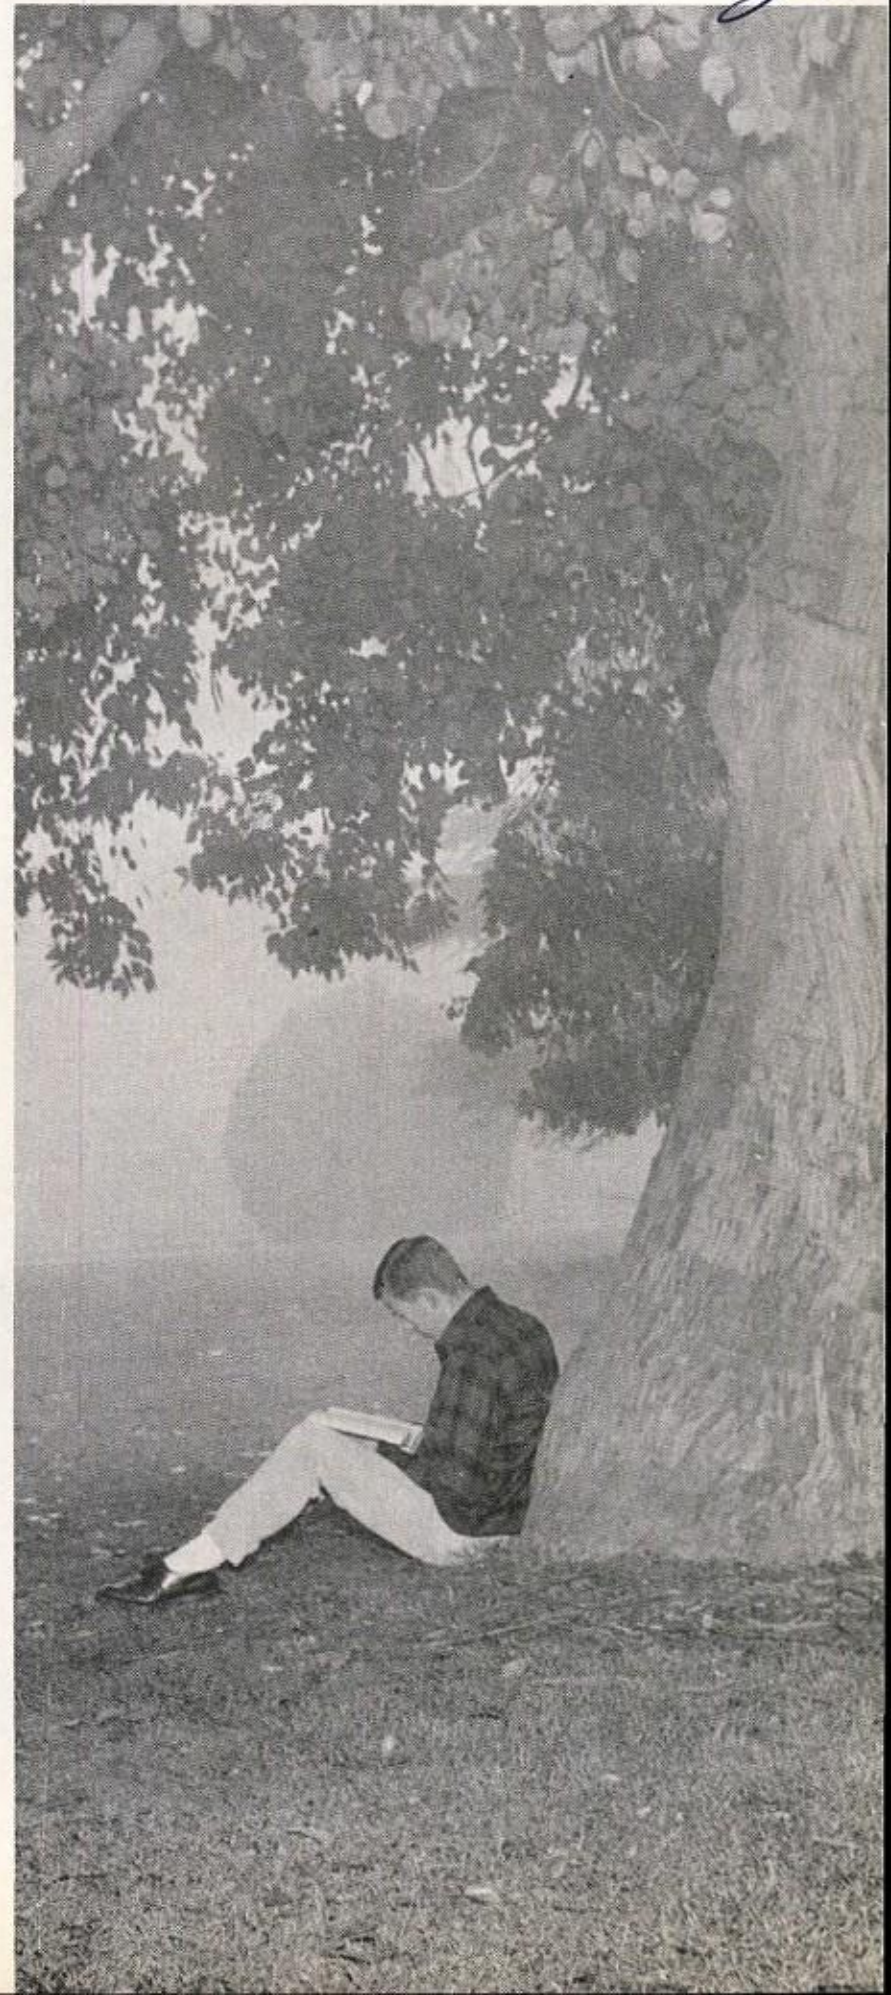

A future, a hope, a goal — color me diligent.

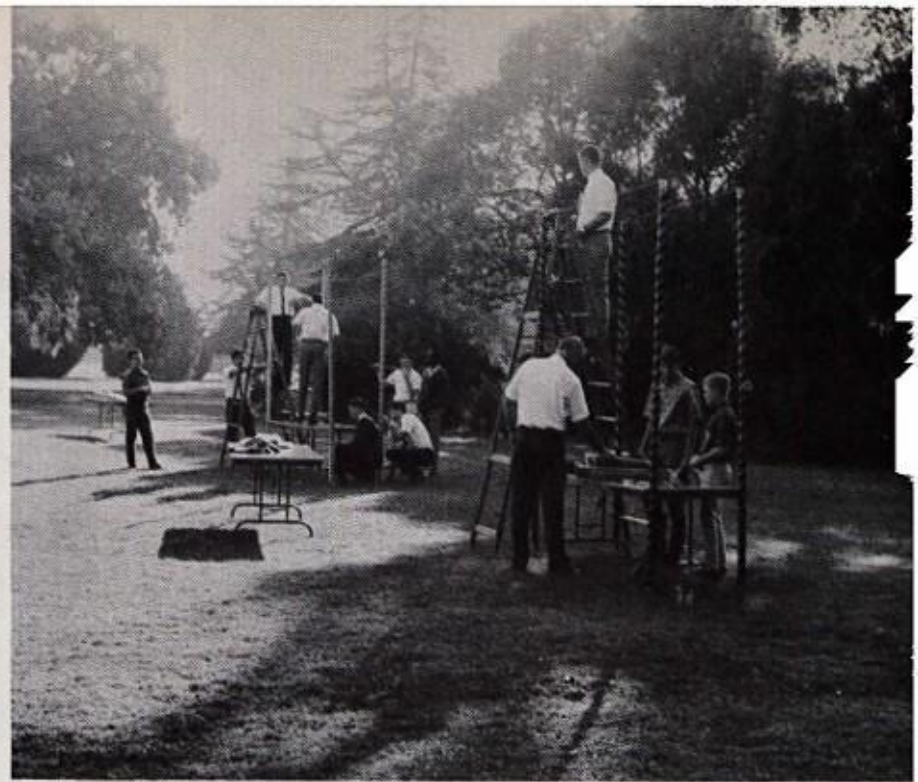

There was a new hope, a new dream. The world and man advanced in an inevitable procession.

A new era of technology was ushered in. Changes, transformations take place more rapidly than ever before. Yet while all else may change, the heart, the soul of existence remains.

As new challenges appear and new faces arise to meet them, there is yet joy and sorrow, love and hate, fear and trust. The People yet laugh and weep, grieve and rejoice, curse and pray. Though all else succumbs to history—though the land and man may change—there is one thing that ever remains—The Eternal Rainbow of Human Emotions.

This eternal rainbow shall be the theme of this, the 1966 yearbook.

Two worlds meet

On October 8, 9 and 10, 1965, nearly 3000 people converged on the Wasco High campus — 3000 people from the past and the present. Though their worlds were vastly different in time and place, they found here a common bond. The place which they once attended, the faces they once knew were somehow changed. But laughter, joy still remained. Together the alumni registered, dined, conversed and cheered — together they spent a weekend of gaiety and memories, a weekend too quickly come and gone.

Homecoming crowd of approximately 3000 views pageantry on night of Oct. 8.

"Climbing to Higher Goals" is the frosh float dream.

On sophomore float — "Your Dreams, Our Realities" — are J. Prueitt, M. Porter, S. Vono and R. Peters.

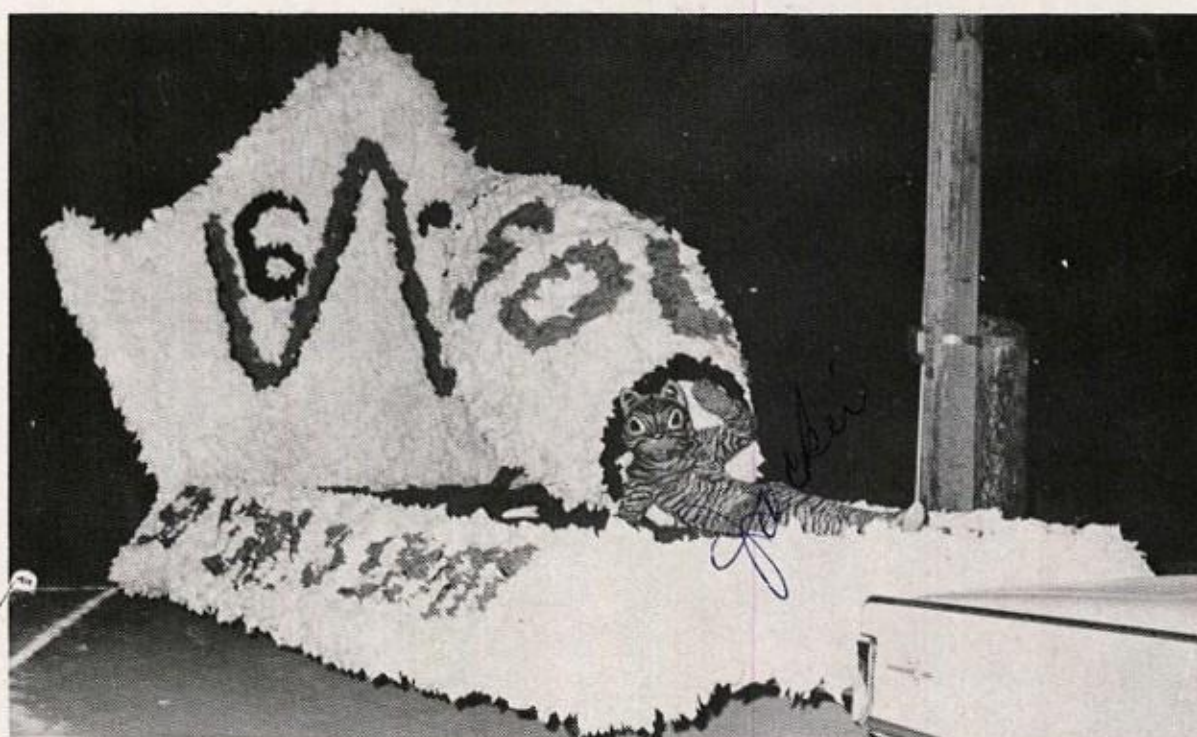

Spanish Club float captures first place at Homecoming Festivities.

Spanish Club entry shows D. Tracy and M. Malofy attending country school of 1915 and B. Kane and L. Malofy arriving at school of 1965.

Fifty Years of Spirit is depicted by junior class entry.

The 1966 graduate (J. Brown) stands at the threshold of professions of the future (depicted by D. Hively, G. Fries and D. Hill) on senior float—"The Future Is Ours."

Wonder of Learning

Class of '66 successfully completes year as campus leaders

D. Craig, 1st and 2nd semester vice president; D. Twining, 1st semester president; D. Blythe, 2nd semester treasurer; S. Bartel, 1st semester treasurer; S. Palmer, 2nd semester secretary. Unpictured: B. Keith, 2nd semester president; K. Hively, 1st semester secretary.

Government students give their undivided attention to the professor's interesting lecture. (Hey, wake up!)

Clever senior reaps a handsome profit by selling the not-so-clever frosh an assembly seat.

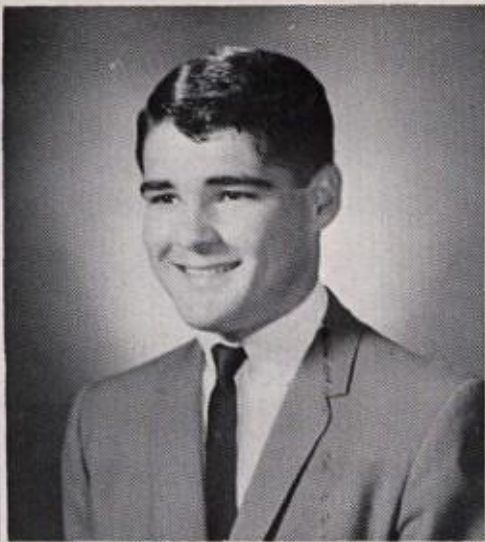

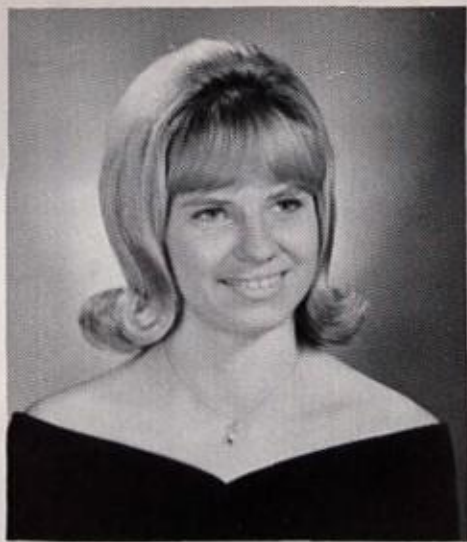

"I wanna ditch, too!"

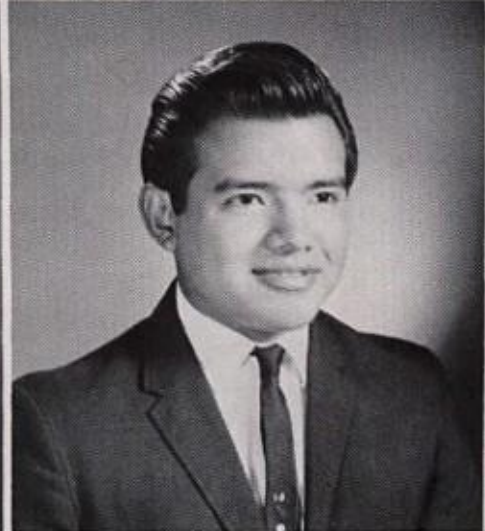

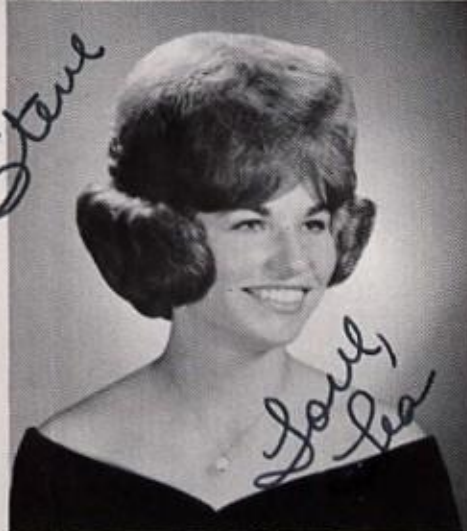

Are ya ready, seniors?

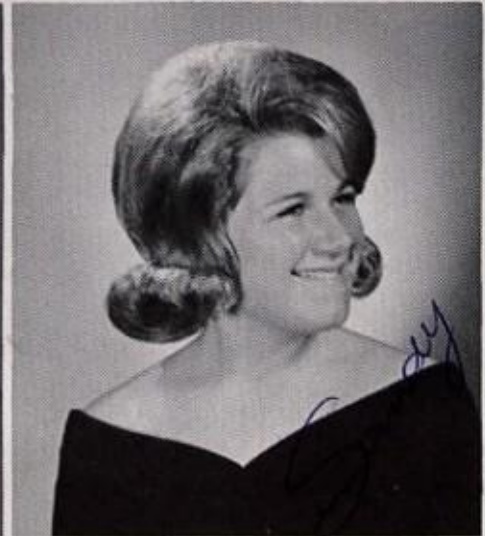

Senior Advisors: Mrs. Mary Kay Hill, Mr. Frank Thiessen and Mr. Raymond Sears. Senior Counselor: Mr. Paul Wise.

In the shadows of the majestic Matterhorn lay an enticing valley embracing the twilight hours with music and laughter. Sparkling droplets cascaded in an ivy-covered waterfall softly hurrying to its destination. In the distance stood a quaint Swiss chalet quietly awaiting its guests.

Servers enjoy well-deserved reward.

Swiss chalet enhances setting of 1965 Junior-Senior Banquet

The night too soon departs
And though it dies, it leaves a mem'ry
Glowing in our hearts
A glow that is the symbol of
The happy days we've known
Of countless friends and dreams come true
Of four years that have flown
Of four short years that hurried by
And to them now we cling
As rather wistfully we reach
Our Prom — the final fling.

Mr. J. Cutner praises Banquet effort.

Guests enjoy a delicious Swiss dinner.

Seniors captivate audience with dramatization of "You Can't Take It With You"

"Does a Martin Vanderhof live here?"

"Has something happened to your figure, Mr. DePinna?"

April 1 was the appropriate night for the seniors' presentation of "You Can't Take It With You." Martin Vanderhof's household is in a continually chaotic state — for under one roof plays are written, snakes are bred and ballet is practiced (to the accompaniment of a xylophone). But it's a happy family, full of life and vigor; and although the unpeaceful serenity is nearly upset, Grandpa saves the day with a bit of rare wisdom.

The seniors, under Mr. Mendenhall's direction, presented a hilarious play that Wasco is not likely to forget!

"Listen to this, Essie!"

"Now look, Mr. Kirby, I'm Ginger Rogers and you're Fred Astaire!"

"Now, take your hands off me!"

The curtain closed; the audience applauded in fine appreciation; and so the Junior Class Play of 1965 ended. The viewers remarked their appreciation and pleasure as they departed from the humor of Stanley Nichols, a budding author who struggled to write a serious inspiring novel but instead produced this farcical comedy, "More Than Meets the Eye." Because Stan strained to write his serious novel, he needed money to live on. For existence money, he wrote children's stories, signed Grandma Letty. As a serious author, Nichols could think of nothing worse than being connected with a juvenile series. However, the children's stories gained national fame, and under the pen name of Grandma Letty, the author was elected Grandmother of the Year. To accept the award would mean certain death for his novel. Nichols had to devise some way to refuse the award or to receive it without being revealed. But, as in all comedies, the protagonist overcomes the obstacles and Stanley Nichols did this by confessing his true identity.

Actors prepare for performance.

Affectionately known as Juney, the charming, vivacious Miss Hayashi spreads warmth and happiness

My Dear Friends:

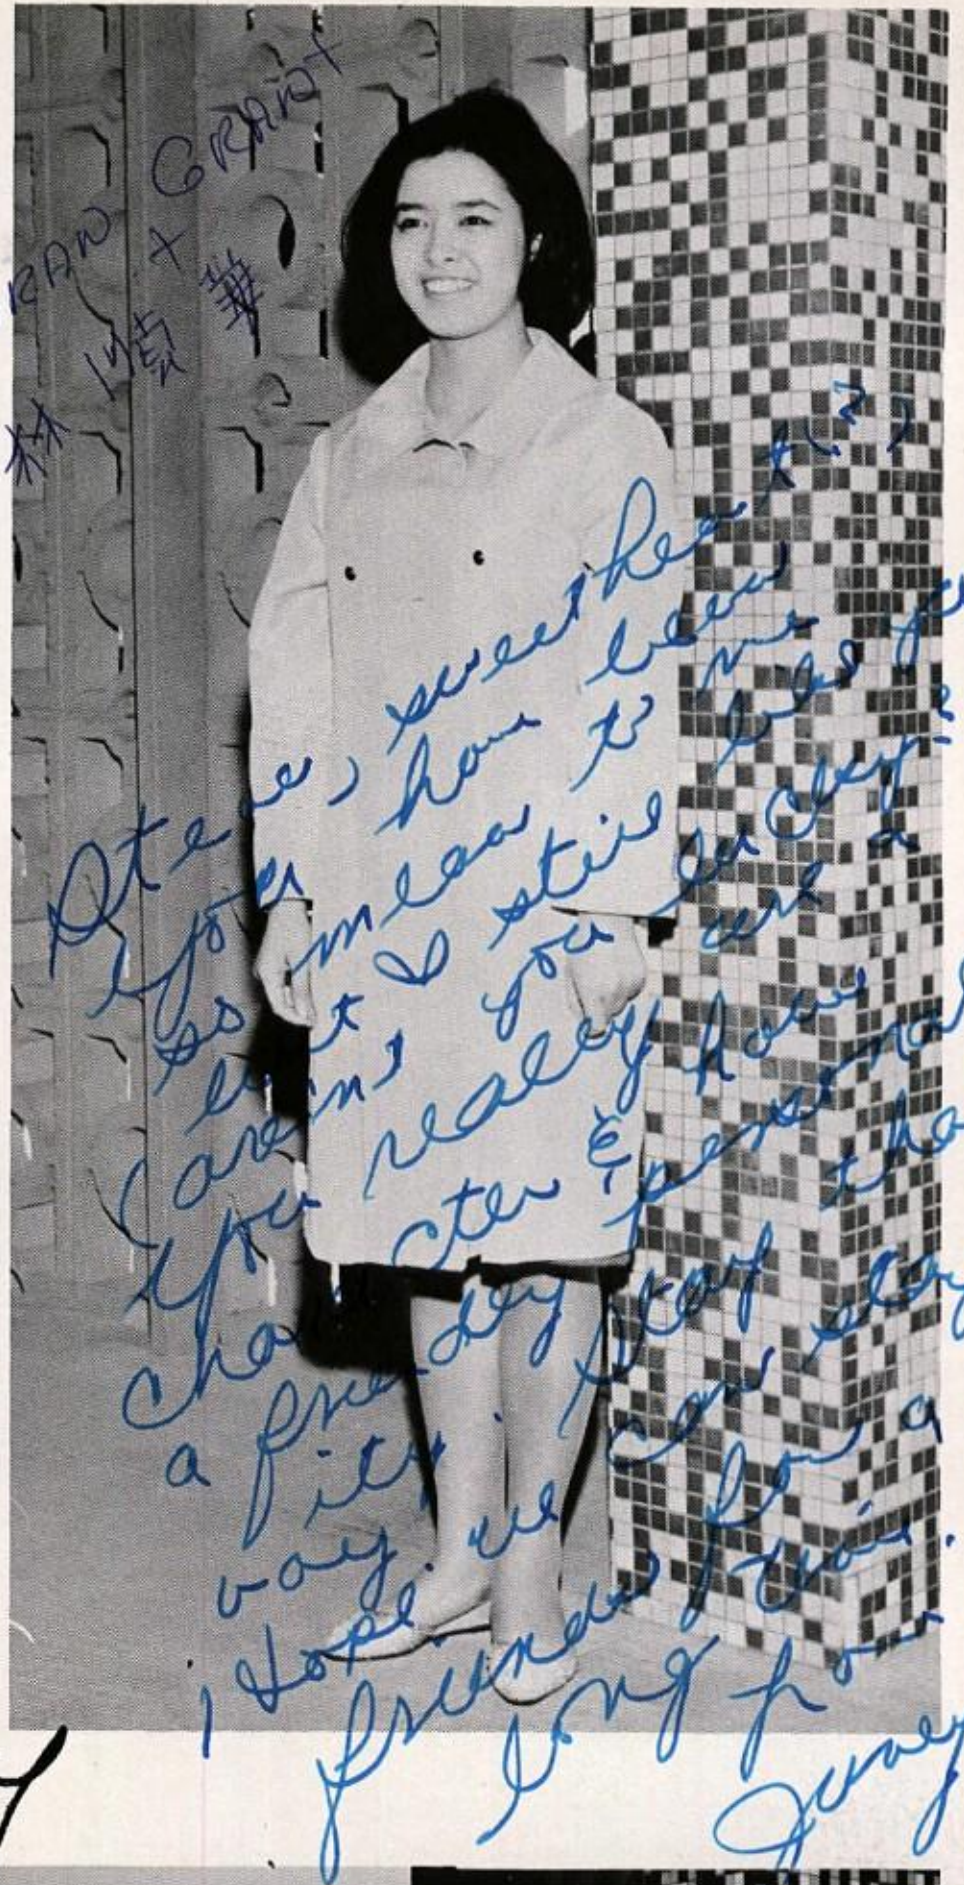

When I received a letter from Wasco High in 1965, it became one of the happiest days of my life. One of my strongest desires was to come to the States and continue my studies. On the 25th of August, my dream came true.

Upon my arrival in Wasco, I was very surprised. To tell you the truth, I expected lots more than I saw. I expected to see big skyscrapers like in New York. When I found out that it was only a small town, I was a little disappointed because I grew up in such a big city. At first I didn't like town because it was so different from the way I used to live, but as school started, I began to like it much better. I found out how nice and kind the people were. They had a warmth which the people of my home town, Tokyo, did not have. When I had troubles with my studies, people were kind enough to help me. I'm so very happy to be able to exchange the cultures of our countries through conversation and friendship.

And now, as the time draws near to my departure, I prepare to leave with sorrow and regret. You have made my stay happy here and I hope in the future we'll always remain friends even though I'll be in a different part of the state, I'll look forward to future visits to Wasco High.

Thank you very much!

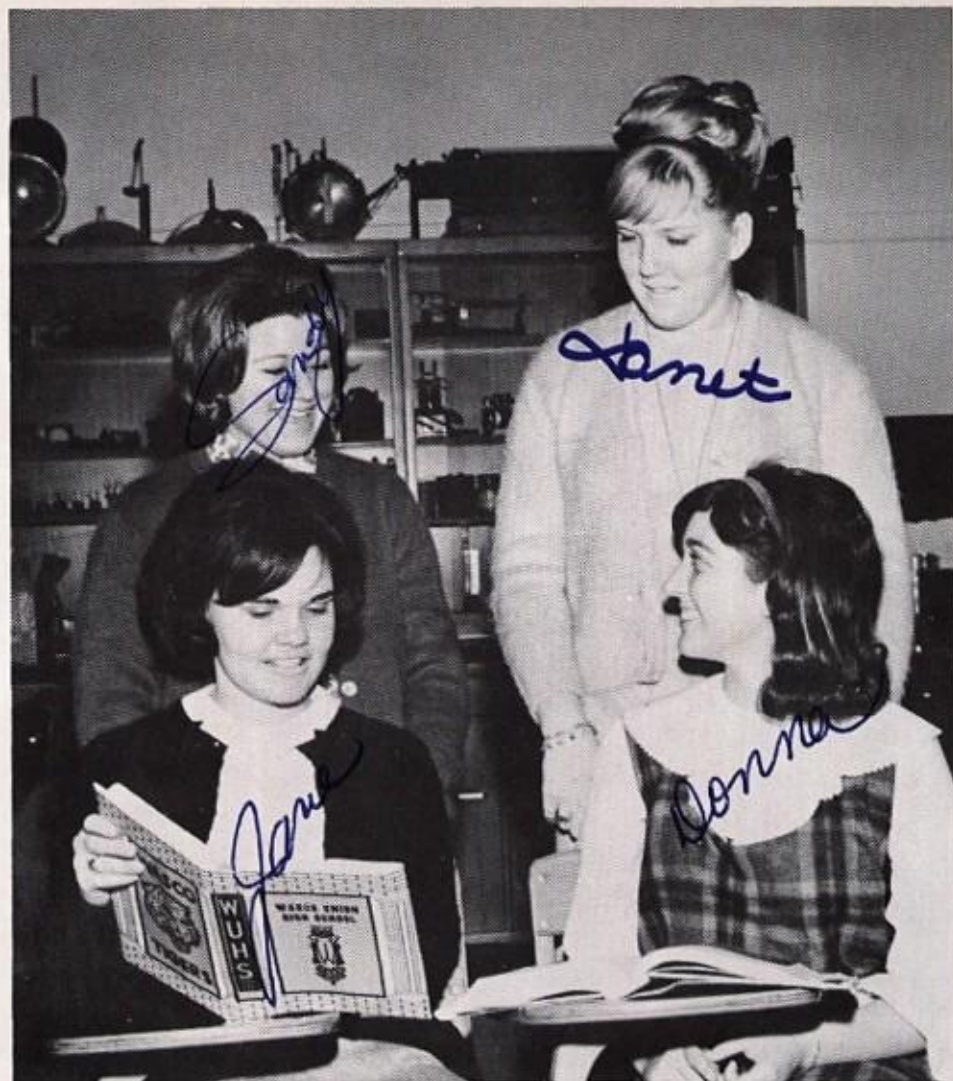

Love
Juney

Read

Life is a building. It rises slowly day by day, through the years. Every new lesson we learn lays a block on the edifice which is rising silently within us. Every experience, every touch of another life on ours, every influence that impresses us, every book we read, every conversation we have, every act of our commonest days adds something to the invisible.

"... and in today already walks tomorrow"

—Coleridge

For fifty years — from the first graduates in 1917 to this fiftieth graduating class — The Eternal Rainbow of Human Emotions has ever arched above us. But its colorful shades have constantly swirled in change. It is our hope that in this book — in its words and pictures — those shades of emotion which created this 1965-66 school year have been aptly recorded.

The months of plans, of dreams, of anxiety, of joy exhausted in this yearbook are finally culminated. Sincerest thanks are now and always extended to the Wasconian staff, whose diligence and cooperative effort, Vicki Frysak and Brenda Schroeder, whose imagination and generous aid,

Mr. G. E. Appel, whose guidance and endless understanding, Mr. Ray Rexius, whose tolerance and professional assistance, Mr. and Mrs. Wally Shafer, whose knowledge and devoted counsel, the Shafer Publishing staff, whose exertion and artistic pride, the instructors, whose patience and continual cooperation, were vital to the success of this yearbook.

And now this book is no longer theirs or ours, but yours — for you, the students of Wasco High, have created it.

Signed,

Janet Merritt and Patty Kane
